

Call for Abstracts

2006 Annual AEG Texas Section Meeting
Professional Presentations and
Student Research Presentation Competition
April 8, 2006 • Waco, Texas

The Texas Section of the Association of Environmental and Engineering Geologists (AEG) is pleased to invite abstracts for professional and student presentations. The presentations will be delivered at the April 8, 2006, Annual Meeting of the AEG Texas Section. The meeting will be held at Baylor University, Waco, Texas, and will include a student presentation competition with a top prize of a Brunton compass. Deadline for abstract submission is March 3, 2006.

In addition to professional and student presentations, the Texas section is proud to welcome as keynote speaker Dr. Jerry Higgins, 2006 GSA/AEG Richard H. Jahns Distinguished Lecturer. Dr. Higgins is an engineering geology professor at Colorado School of Mines in Golden, Colorado, and he will discuss expansive soils mitigation.

Information for Presenters

Abstracts related to any aspect of environmental or engineering geology are invited for submission. Abstracts should be no longer than 300 words and should describe the general interest of the paper for attendees of the meeting. Authors may want to visit the helpful site entitled "How to Write an Abstract" for advice on preparing an effective scientific abstract.

<http://www.ece.cmu.edu/~koopman/essays/abstract.html>

Oral presentations will be 15-20 minutes, including 3-5 minutes for questions. A LCD projector will be available for presentations.

In the abstract submission please include:

- Title of the proposed presentation
- Name of the author(s), School, Organization, or Company
- Email address
- Abstract text (300 words or less)

Please submit all abstracts to Marie Garsjo at: Marie.Garsjo@ftw.usda.gov

Note to registered Texas PG's: Giving a presentation counts for twice the number of required annual PDH's as attendance at the meeting.
